Campbell, Harry H.	IR 17 Jan 1924	72y	16 Jan. 1924	H.H. CAMPBELL PASSED AWAY EARLY WEDNESDAY MORNING - H. H. Campbell, scion of one of the oldest and best families in Lawrence County, died at his home at Fifth and Jefferson streets, Wednesday morning at 4 o'clock after but a week's illness. Mr. Campbell was stricken while visiting his daughter, Mrs. Mitchell of Columbus, last week and was hurriedly returned home. His condition gradually grew worse and finally the end came with relatives and friends in no way prepared for the shock its announcement occasioned. Mr. Campbell's death removed from the county one of its most valued residents; a Christian gentle man who seemingly never grew old and could be seen almost any Sunday leading a number of younger folks for a jaunt into the hills. He was a lover of the great out-doors and of the younger generation, never too busy to give urchins a lift and never too dignified to enjoy their companionship. In his death they miss a chum and their grief is equally as deep as that of other Ironton residents. But the bereaved family suffers most, for a beloved and faithful husband and a kind, indulgent father has been called from their midst. Mr. Campbell was born and raised in Ironton a son of Hiram Campbell, one of the founders of the city. He was in his 72nd year, being born on May 17, 1853. He attended the Ironton public schools and later was a student at Miami University. Returning to Ironton he was married on May 27, 1878 to Miss Elizabeth F. Bixby and to this union the following children were born: Mrs. R. E. Mitchell of Columbus,

Campbell, Hiram	IRW 8 Aug 1896			Mr. Hiram Campbell, one of the pioneer iron masters of this region, and one of the founders of Ironton, died at this home on north Fifth street at 3:45 o'clock Friday morning. Mr. Campbell had been ill since Sunday last, but seemed to be getting better, and though confined to his bed, it was fully hoped, up to 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, that he would be up again. At the hour named, however, he took a relapse and gradually sank until death came. His death was peaceful, and his spirit passed away with scarcely a perceptible struggle. Mr. Campbell was on the streets Satuday and was apparently in his usual health. On Sunday, he became ill, being affected with a trouble of the bowels, and was confined to his bed. He was tenderly cared for, however, and appeared to be getting better, and even, on Thursday was able to sit up in bed and was in good spirits, until the change came. His children, who are in the city, and other relatives, were with him till a late hour last night, and, when it was believed he would survivedive through today at least, they departed. His son-in-law, Col. J. H. Moulton, and his nurse, Mr. Wm. Winston, remained to minister to him and were at his bedside when he died. He was conscious almost to the last moment. Hiram Campbell was born in Fleming County, Kentucky, in November, 1810, and when quite a lad came with his father's family to Brown county, Ohio. When about twenty years of

Scott, Jennie	IR 19 Jun 1862	28y	17 Jun 1862	On Monday evening last, at Mt. Vernon Furnace, in this county, an accident occurred from the explosion of a camphene lamp, by which Miss Jennie Scott, d/o Robert Scott, was burned so badly that she died the next day about noon. Her father, Mr. Scott, was also burned severely, though not dangerously, in trying to extinguish the flames, and rescue his daughter. The lamp was a swinging one, and had just been trimmed, filled and lighted, a few moments before by Miss Scott and her brother. Miss Scott had started to the parlor to call her father and another gentleman to tea, and was passing directly under the lamp, when it exploded, setting her clothes on fire, with the above result. Miss Scott was one among the most beautiful and accomplished young ladies of Lawrence county, the favorite of all, and her sudden death, has cast a gloom over the entire community. We learn from Dr. Wilson who attended on her that she suffered very little after the accident, was perfectly rational, and when roused up conversed with those about her. When asked if she suffered much, she replied no, but complained of being very tired. This scene at _____ Dr. Wilson informs us, was the most heart-rending he ever witnessed - parents, brothers, sisters and friends giving way to their feelings in the most violent screaming and crying. Miss Scott appeared to _____ ____ __ __ the trying scene of all the vast number present. Her sister, Miss Nannie Scott, was to have been married today - Thursday - and Jennie had her trunks packed ready to accompany her sister to her new home in Chicago. But an

No alarm was felt for her the day before as the attack was not severe, but her great age prevented rallying and at 6 o'clock, she passed away. b. Greenup county, Kentucky, 17 Jul 1814, and so was nearly 85 years old. She spent her youth and married there. About 1848, her husband, Robert Scott, came to this county, and was for years a prominent iron man. He was manager at Mt. Vernon for ten or fifteen years, in those early days of the iron business when furnace life was a social affair as well as iron making enterprise....At the close of the war, Mr. Scott moved to Ironton, and took charge of Old Mill, and was long connected with that concern. Here the fmaily has resided ever since, somewhat broken in membership, but always while Mrs. Scott lived, a place where old friends loved to gather. Her death recalls the fact that the great merchant prince, Marshal Field, of Chicago, wooed and won her daughter, Nannie, a most lovely and beautiful lady, whose death two years ago, filled so many hearts with sorrow. At the bedside of Mrs. Scott, when she expired, was her daughter, Mrs. Earhart. Her daughters, Miss Nora of New York city, and Mrs. Gardener of Boston, have arrived. Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Jennie Osenton, neices of Mr. Scott are here. Misses Florence and Jessie Scott, granddaughters, and Mr. Garner, grandson have come, too. The funeral took place from the residence, this Wednesday afternoon, Revs. Jordan and Manville, attending to the services. The interment at Woodland, by the side of her husband who died over eight
